Strunk of the Athletics.

Although Amos Strunk, outfielder for Connie Mack, is playing on a hopelessly tall order, he is still putting up the brilliant game that distinguished his work when the Philadelphia Athletics were winning world championships. Amos is a Philadelphia boy.

and is twenty-seven years old. His first professional job was with the outlaws Atlantic league in 1908. He joined the Athletics that year and was named to Milwaukee, where he led the league. He was recalled to the Athletics in 1910 and has been with the club ever since. When he is right he is the fastest man on the team.

The Browns of St. Louis.

Fleider Jones may not win the American league pennant this year, but there is no denying the fact that just now his St. Louis Browns are the most interesting club in baseball. After wallowing around near the Athletics they have become pennant contenders. There are any number of people who believe that Fleider Jones is going to win the pennant. They think that his present Browns are more powerful than his famous White Sox of hallowed memory in Chicago. Certainly with George Sisler, Derrill Pratt, Armando Marsans and Bert Shotton the Browns are a faster and heavier hitting aggregation than the old Sox.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

The girl's father, a gruff, stout, old fellow, came into the parlor at 9:30 with his watch in his hand. The young man was standing on a chair straightening a picture.

"Young man, do you know what time it is?" asked father. "Yes, sir," replied the youth, jumping down, "I was just going." He rushed into the hall, seized his coat and hat, and left without putting his coat on. The old gentleman turned to his daughter in genuine astonishment. "What is the matter with that young fellow? I wanted him to tell me the time so I could set my watch."—Country Gentleman.

Matter Enough.

"I just stopped to tell you about that four you sent me the other day," said Mrs. Newlywed. "Why, madam," answered the grocer, "that was the best flour I carry in stock. What was the matter with it?" "Matter, indeed! Why, it was a tough my husband couldn't eat the biscuits I made with it."

A Blind One at the Phone.

A large firm in Aberdeen recently engaged as office boy a raw country youth. It was part of his duties to attend to the telephone in his master's absence. When first called upon to answer the bell, in reply to the usual query, "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came, and still again and each time the boy gave an answering nod. When the question came for the fourth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the telephone: "Man, a' ye blind? I've been noddin' me head off for the last half hour!"

A Wise One.

Baker—Why is it that you always want to take your vacation before any of the other men in the establishment have been away? Jones—So there will be no chance for any of the rest of them to come back and urge me to go where they got stung.

Wisdom.

Wisdom may be compared to water. As water leaves the heights and gathers in the depths, so is wisdom received from on high and preserved by a lowly soul.—Talmud.

Kindness of Nature.

"Ain't nature wonderful?" "Why?" "She gives us all food, but we can't eat our own teeth."—Harvard Lampoon.

Providence has no friends and wants no enemies.—Thomas Paine

Athletes to Compete in Sweden.

It has fallen to the lot of Ted Meredith and Jo Loomis to represent Uncle Sam on foreign soil in a special meet arranged by the Swedish National Gymnastic and Sport association, to be held at Stockholm, Sweden, the week of Oct. 15.

Secretary Fred W. Rubben of the A. U. will select the third member of the party at the conclusion of the national championships at Newark, N. J., Sept. 9. The man who, in his opinion, accomplishes the best individual performance or performances gets the plum. It is entirely within the jurisdiction of Mr. Rubben to pick the miniature team.

The lucky trio will sail for Stockholm Sept. 25 on board the steamship Oscar II. They are due to arrive in that city Oct. 9. This will give them four or five days in which to wear off their sea legs and train a little. Competition will most likely begin Oct. 15. The return trip is slated for Oct. 19, and the boys will be back in New York city by the 20th.

Tinker Satisfied.

Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Cubs, says that he got the best of the deal when he swapped Frank Schulte and Fischer to Pittsburgh for Art Wilson, the former Pirate catcher.

"Wilson is one of the best catchers in the major leagues," said Tinker. "and Old Man Time will prove that assertion."

Hornaby Came Cheap.

Roger Hornaby cost the St. Louis Cards less than $750. That's another lesson in the value of taking a look at every "prospect."

Umpire Baiting.

Kicking at the umpires is often an alibi for bad ball playing, and yet the fans usually stand for the poor stuff and follow the players' lead.

Jimmy Johnston of the Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn ball club has a number of scouts. Each year they send up to the Dodgers a flock of recruits. The most promising youngster the Flatbushers have picked up since Jake Daubert came is Jimmy Johnston. Jimmy was picked up by Charles H. Ebbets himself. Johnston has played great ball in the Dodger outfield this year. He has played a fine defensive game and has hit well and run the bases with speed and judgment. Many rate him as the most valuable of the Dodger outer gardeners.

Keep Henhouses Free From Mites

Few farmers and poultrymen appreciate the value and cheapness of crude oil—crude petroleum, the same used for treating roads—as a paint and insecticide for poultry houses, hoghouses, coops and other places where insecticides and paint are needed. Crude oil is also a germicide and can be used as a general disinfectant in some ways. It is especially good for sprinkling around troughs and other feeding and watering vessels for killing pests. It is good on poultry house or hoghouse floor to settle dust.

There is no better lice and mite exterminator than crude oil. It is especially good for painting perches, droppings boards, insides of coops and brooders. It is a splendid wood preservative and a good, cheap paint where the dark color is of no objection. It is better than kerosene for painting perches and inside walls to kill insects, as it is thicker and fills small cracks better. It is valuable used on foundation and floor boards of coops and house for preservation and to keep out moisture.

It is meanly to love one's country; it is gallantly to love the world.—J. W. Cuthbert.

Indiana and Time.

Certain of the reservation Indians still cling to the calendar of their ancestors. The Indian method was to compute time by sleeps and moons. A sleep is twenty-four hours, and a moon is a month. There is also a midmoon, where the sun is at 12 o'clock meridian. This hour is indicated by pointing overhead.

When an Indian pointed quarter way up the sky he meant 9 o'clock; when he pointed quarter way down he meant 3 o'clock. Sunrise was the eastern horizon and sunset the western.

When there was a moon the time was indicated in the same way as by the sun. Were an Indian asked the distance to a certain place or how far he had come he would say so many sleeps, or days' travel. A sleep, as describing distance, was about thirty-five miles, when walking deliberately or from fifty to seventy-five miles if going in haste with a message.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The First Atlas.

The first modern atlas was the work of Abraham Ortelius, a Dutch geographer, who died 518 years ago. His monumental treatise, entitled "Theatrum Orbis Terrarum," was first published at Antwerp in 1570 and was revised and reissued five times during the author's lifetime. It was a folio volume containing nearly a hundred maps, representing the different countries and continents as they were then known. Although this atlas was a momentous achievement, yet a bright schoolboy today could draw maps from memory with a better approximation to correctness. Even England and Scotland appear in this pioneer volume with amazing distortions of coast line and relative area, and many other maps in the volume bear only a slight resemblance to those of today.—New York World.

An Ant That Spins.

The spinning ant is found in India, in Ceylon, in the islands of Malacca and in Australia. This ant weaves its nest between two leaves of a tree, preferably the mango. It begins to build or to weave by drawing two leaves together. To do this it runs a line of its working material—material similar to the spider's thread—the length of the leaf and around it. While at work it clings to the leaf with its nails and at the same time draws on the leaf nearest to it with its mandibles. Sometimes the two leaves suitable for nest building are too far apart; then the builder cuts in its fellow ants, and they help to form a chain. Each ant, clinging to the waist of its neighbor by its mandibles. Thus enchain, they work to build the nest of their comrade.

That Indefinite Article.

The rule dealing with the indefinite article preceding words commencing with "an" (when pronounced "ya") does not appear to be an adamant one. Like Macaulay, with his fondness for "an" university, many of our best writers and speakers prefer to ignore the rule and back their fancy in this little question of euphony. As for the man in the street, the matter has long ago been settled in favor of "an" in all cases where the initial "u" has the "yu" sound, partly no doubt because such phrases as "an untitled people" do not come trippingly off the tongue and have an old-fashioned, pedantic flavor. And there are sensitive ears that will prefer "an unique" to the more studied "a unique."—London Chronicle.

Calendars of the Aztecs.

Calendars are probably the oldest form of literature in the world. The cards which appear by the millions in all civilized countries nowadays have their counterpart among the most ancient known races. The Aztecs, for example, were well supplied with calendars, and several of them have been preserved to this day. They were published in stone and set up in public places.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

+ Dangers of Bad Teeth. +
+ A bad tooth should never be tolerated, and the danger of cancer is only one more good reason for having it attended to. Cancer of the tongue may occur at any age, but it is most common between forty and sixty. As one-third of all cases investigated have been shown to be definitely associated with jagged or decayed teeth or imperfect plates, it would seem that there is one method of preventing cancer. +
+ It is probable that other conditions occurring in combination with bad teeth increase the likelihood of cancer of the tongue. +
+ As a result, but the removal of this form of irritation is so simple a matter that deaths in cases of this kind must be charged to pure negligence. If the removal or treatment of the tooth does not relieve the situation, a third ulcer continues, prompt operation is necessary, for this form of cancer is quickly fatal. +

WOMAN DIRECTS HOME PURCHASES

Quick to Recognize Genius and Sensible Men.

HER WEAKNESS AS A BUYER

Her Susceptibility to Bargains—Women Have More Strength in Their Looks Than We Have in Our Laws. Men Allude to Them as Weaker Vessels.

Women have more strength in their looks than we have in our laws and more power by their tears than we have by our arguments. Women are quick to recognize genius and to listen when wisdom speaks. They may chatter in the presence of fools, but know and appreciate the value of earnest, sensible men.

It is assumed that the Almighty made man as his masterpiece, and conceded being that he is, man accepted this statement as a piece of truth.

That the earth and all it contains were made for his special benefit, that woman was created solely for his comfort, that the sun was made to give him light by day and the moon to enable him to find his way home at night, that the heavens were hung with a resplendent curtain of stars and the planets sent whirling through space in a majestic dance about the god of day simply to afford him matter for wonder and amusement—ideas of this sort evince an egotism that can only be accredited to man.

Masterpieces indeed! Why, God made man and finding that he could not take care of himself, made woman to care of him, and she is discharging her heaven ordained duty in an artistic and capable manner.

Are Women the Weaker Vessels? Men are fond of alluding to women as "the weaker vessels," and Pope calls man the "great lord of things." Men rule with a rod of iron the creatures of the earth, the sea and the air. They hunt defiance in the face of kings and presidents. They tread the ocean's foam beneath their feet, they harness the imperial thunderbolts to the jangling electric car and even succeed in mounting the storm and flying upon the wind, but the bravest of them tremble and lie like Cretnas when called upon by their wives to explain some of their extravagant purchases, and for this reason many men delegate their wives as the official "family shoppers" and thereby shift the responsibility to them.

More Good Sense Than Men. Women have more good sense than men. They have fewer pretensions, are less implicated in theories and judge of values more from their immediate and involuntary impressions on the mind and therefore more truly and naturally. It is said "men have sight, women insight." For these and many more reasons women make better shoppers than men.

Women regulate their purchases altogether by the amount they have to spend, men by the amount of credit they can get. Women like to put their money where it will do the most good, men where it will make the greatest show. Men are usually "broke," women very seldom. All of which goes to show that women are the "stronger vessels" after all.

The Slogan of Woman.

Women not only make the home worth while, but they make the local town, the countryside and the whole community worth while. Whenever there is found a movement on foot for the uplift and betterment of community interests and conditions woman's power and woman's influence can always be found behind it. Woman's slogan is, "Purity of home, purity of community and the home town and home merchant forever."

The mail order patrons are not willfully and consciously in the wrong; they are merely mistaken. They are to use the language of a jokester of a dead century—trying to skin a flint worth a nickel and spelling a jack-knife worth a dollar.
